

Ecotourism is becoming very popular worldwide. Getting deep in nature and pushing yourself to new limits will help you rediscover what you thought you lost. In California, it is very diverse with mountains, deserts, caves, and a network of rivers. It would take years to truly explore them all. Whether it is driving off road in a National Forest, going scuba diving in the Ocean, or camping by volcanic caves to overcome fears, it will be an experience to remember. For the younger generation, there are plenty of challenges here for you too. In the guide you will find a variety of outdoor activities, what equipment to use, and where to go try it.
