

Have you ever questioned the importance of evangelism? Have you wondered about your responsibility in evangelism? Is it for me or just for the ministers? Is evangelism important? Is it something that I must do? Do I know its importance, but don't feel called or equipped? Do I know the message of the Gospel? Do I know the Person of the Gospel? Have I dodged the issue and dodged my responsibility? These and other questions are the subject of this book. Him We Proclaim provides the foundation for the gospel message. It provides tools and resources necessary to prepare each one of us for evangelism. This book will help us learn the roles and responsibilities of being a disciple of Jesus Christ, His ambassador, His witness, and His shepherd. It will prepare us for the issues and questions which people raise and discover how to answer according to God's Holy Word. Further, Him We Proclaim presents a plan for ecumenical evangelism, called SEEK, (Salvation through Ecumenical Evangelism for the Kingdom of God), uniting Christians in a ministry to preach the gospel and spread the Kingdom. William H. Wetmore holds graduate degrees from both Duke University and Lehigh University, leading to a successful career in engineering science. He was a Division Director at the National Science Foundation before becoming Associate Dean of Engineering at West Virginia University. He has been the speaker at many Christian conferences and is the President of SEEK Ministries, sponsoring ecumenical evangelism with a group of approximately 20 churches in Moore County, North Carolina. He is the author of two other books, GODS HIDDEN TREASURES (THE PARABLES OF JESUS) and YOU MUST BE BORN AGAIN. He and his wife, Nancy, live in North Carolina and are active in many Christian ministries.
