

New, important, and provocative.--Charles W. Colson and John J. DiIulio Jr., from the foreword
In this new edition of Just Generosity, Ron Sider, author of the bestselling Rich Christians in an Age of Hunger, calls believers to care as much about the poor as Jesus did. Sider's first edition was cited as a Christianity Today Book Award winner and as one of the Top Ten Books in Religion by Booklist. Here he updates his comprehensive yet accessible agenda of ways to reduce poverty in the United States. Using poignant stories to engage the heart and well-documented facts to convince the mind, Sider presents a nonpartisan corrective to poverty in the United States. These concrete suggestions will be an invaluable help to those who wish to understand and join political debates over poverty. Sider's most important book since Rich Christians in an Age of Hunger. I hope every Christian will read this book.--Jim Wallis, editor-in-chief, Sojourners; author, God's Politics
Drawing creatively from both conservatives and liberals, Sider issues a powerful biblical call to end the scandal of widespread poverty in the richest nation on the earth.--David Beckmann, president, Bread for the World
Readers will find his discussion insightful and his proposals for change resonant.--Library Journal
Ron Sider knows how to lift up people in need, transform their lives, and liberate them from material and spiritual poverty. The answers are in this important and challenging book.--John Ashcroft, former attorney general of the United States
[An] honest assessment of . . . racism and the structural inequities which lock African Americans, Latino Americans, and minorities out of the system.--Jeremiah A. Wright Jr., senior pastor, Trinity United Church of Christ, Chicago
Every politician, Republican or Democrat, now espousing faith-based solutions to our social problems; every social justice activist, liberal or conservative, seeking to apply religious truths to our contemporary moral challenges, should start by delving into Just Generosity.--Rabbi David Saperstein, director and counsel, Religious Action Center of Reform Judaism
